

ABC of a medieval church

CONTENTS

PREFACE

INTRODUCTION

ABC OF A MEDIEVAL CHURCH

A very short glossary

Outside the church building

A is for Altars

Quire stalls

The chancel door

Seats for mass celebrants

Lighting the sanctuary

Lavabos

Stobbes

Easter Sepulchres

Squints

Tabernacles

Pyxes

Veils

Tiles

Retables and mensa slabs

Brass and brasses

NORTH-EAST BUILDINGS: THE SERVICE BLOCK

WORKING IN THE CHANCEL

Collegiality

String courses

THE ACOUSTICS OF CHANCEL

Proportions

Light

The acoustic virtues of wood

Acoustic jars

Colour

Carpets

Back to the music

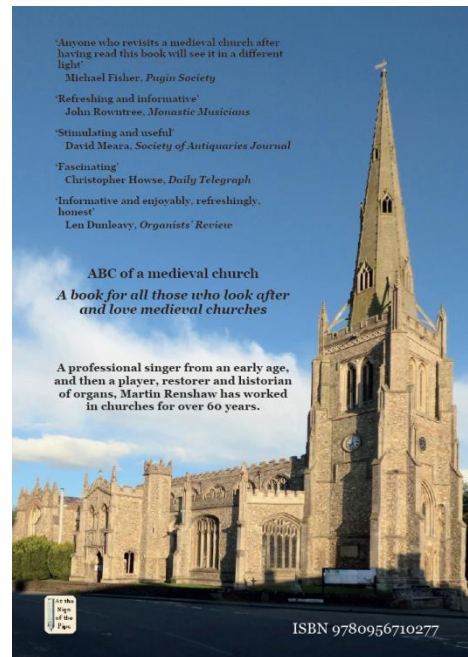

ORGANS IN THEIR CONTEXT

A pair of organs

Organ lofts

Bellows lofts

Portatyffs

Organ music

Organ pedals

Organs and voices

Large English organs

Did your church have a medieval organ?

Size of bellows lofts

Size of organ lofts

B is for Barriers

Basics of a rood screen

Present signs

Rood loft stairs

Rood-stairway windows and doorways

Lower access doors – west or east?

Screens in quires

Pulpitum and quasi-pulpitum lofts

Screens in tower spaces

Screens in the peoples' church

Destroying your own work

Rood celures and additional clerestory and other windows

Dooms

C is for the Church

Building and maintaining

How the Church was used

A priest in the Church

Competence and competition

Medieval death

Pious graffiti

Bosses and corbels

Exterior chapels

Priests' and clerks' housing

Guilds - halls and plays

Church houses

CONCLUSIONS

The future use of chancels

The future of organs

Opening churches

'Festival' and 'Celebration' churches

Envoi